

Galvanized cable trays are made of aluminum alloy

Overview

The aluminum alloy used by American cable tray manufacturers is 6063-T6, which is considered copper-free and sometimes referred to as marine grade aluminum. Steel cable tray with a Hot-Dip Galvanized after Fabrication (ASTM A123) finish has been used successfully for many years. Increasingly, however, aluminum is becoming the material of choice for cable tray systems. The alloys are selected for their mechanical properties, such as strength and hardness, as well as for their resistance to corrosion, particularly stress corrosion, cracking, and pitting. Manufactured using a. A galvanized cable tray is a metal cable tray that has a protective zinc coating. Strong Corrosion Resistance: Galvanized cable trays are coated with a layer of. Ventilated cable tray systems are commonly fabricated from a corrosion-resistant metal or from a metal with a corrosion-resistant finish. However, most commercial uses require. So have you ever wondered how the cable trays are made?

So let's start, cable trays are made of various materials, like Galvanized steel, stainless steel, Aluminum. & the list goes on Galvanized steel is one of the foremost convenient and cheap devices for the development of data and power cables. Galvanized mild steel cable trays are suitable for indoor and outdoor applications, as the zinc coating provides excellent corrosion resistance.
